the preparation of morocco road trip is almost finished, two more good second hand offroad tires and everything is ready i have come to the conclusion that i can leave toto as a normal car, thus without removing the passenger's seat, until i have arrived in morocco then i can slide the passenger seat forward and then i can basically leave the sleeping place like this during the rest of the road trip i once made an overview of the conversion and all in all it will cost me about 500 € and that for a trip, which will give me a priceless experience 😊 sleeping accommodation : 60 € for 2 concrete blocks of 30x30, a headlamp, carabiners to hang things and for suction cups for the window darkening/insulation; the aluminum insulation curtains, plank floor, the mattress, pillow and bed linen are recup multimedia : 75 € for a bluetooth outdoor radio, a 12V/230V converter and a bluetooth fm converter : this way i can charge the laptop, i have spotify in the car, outside and i can play harmonium with a nice volume energy autonomy : 30 € for a 30.000 mah external battery topographical maps & travel guides : 30 € catering : 15 € for a 20 liter jerry can tires : 300 € for 3 second hand offroad tires yesterday for the first time there were also moroccan visitors from tétouan on the website of les tours des miracles and that gave a nice feeling for several months i also "have" something with the number 76, but until now it has not become clear why it resonates with me so much yesterday i saw a land rover 109 dormobile from '76 and it was a real coup de coeur (see photo) the car is not operational at the moment, will be very rudimentary and may have a lot of defects, but that is exactly what appeals to me because we then have that in common 😊 maybe when the zuivelfabriek is sold i will invest in some dormobiles instead of worrying about inflation, which will in any case increase the cost of new and therefore used cars, that would be a nice alternative especially since i now really feel that the project has really started, as i am now at 7 on the axis of (((true))) connectedness i know that i may no longer have an affinity for the dormobile when i am in position 8 and later 9, but since i have set 7 as the starting value for the project, the things i now "own" will later anyway be useful to others within the project maybe that will also be the case with sunshine : for me personally the floor level of the van is too high, but perhaps it will be able to prove its usefulness to others who are above point 7 on the axis in fact i would rather put her at the service of such a type of people than "broil" them to the first opportunist that is also the feeling with regard to the donjon, of which i will only leave the management to administrators who are above 7 on the axis that will be the content of a new advertisement on leboncoin, once the new version of the website will be online in french and dutch today i called the notary to say that the compromise could be drawn up i am grateful that heidi & bart want to become the new concierges and am convinced that they will set up a nice project

In the evening nature had a unique show in store for me the setting sun painted the cloudy sky in the east in countless bright colours, from pale yellow, over orange and pink to lilac to the southeast there was a thunderstorm and it was the first time i saw a rainbow behind a lightning bolt finally, one tiny patch of blue sky was visible in a southerly direction with the waxing moon right in the middle i could see all this without turning my head incredibly beautiful, un truc de ouf, as the local french say at night i got new insights about the website and by noon the draft was ready the new version is a third shorter and much simpler it's no coincidence that just as i've let go of something important material, i'm getting something priceless immaterial in its place as a relaxation i looked on leboncoin and there i saw another 4X4 with an opening roof tent just like with the toyota land cruiser and defender, i also had a coup de coeur with this mercedes G300D it is clear that in the les tours des miracles project a good mechanic will come in handy top of the top would of course be to provide the retro shell with an electric powertrain, with some batteries and solar panels at the moment such a conversion still costs a fortune, but maybe i'll find a sponsor or else i suppose that the prices will drop significantly in the next years cleaned up a few things today

I first went to the garage to become officially the owner of sunshine it was the first time that I drove with the equipped toto and that felt actually very nice the fifettes liked it as well : manon had laid down on the mattress and luna was keeping watch in the footpath if i had a roof tent it would actually be doable to take them on a road trip, but actually it is better to leave them at home with the gardiens no news from guillaume and éléonore for the time being, but I have the feeling that all will be all right

I was also a bit nervous on this fifth attempt, because a lot had gone wrong in the previous four attempts but if you entrust your mind to the universe, peace overtakes you over and over again and yes, this time everything was fine, so the carte grise should be in early next week

I also removed the carcasses of the sheep from the garden, so that they would not pollute the ground and well water actually there wasn't much left of them besides the bones and the wool notwithstanding the fifettes being mostly vegetarian, I gave them some knuckles, which they have been nibbling on all day 😊

I also put a new advertisement on leboncoin to find new residents and (semi) nomads for the donjon, insofar as they mainly live connected with the (((source))), referring to the new version of the website

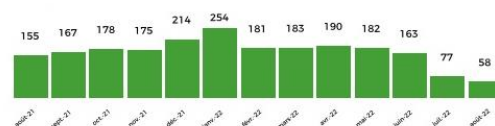

I wonder what the universe will have in store for me now 😊

I also asked eve if I could not use mamie's double sim smartphone during the morocco trip three sim cards on one phone is a bit inconvenient and a backup phone is useful on a 3-month trip if you are so dependent on the phone finally I also received the electricity bill for the donjon for several months I have been trying to significantly reduce the energy bill and that did not work very well, until I decided to switching off the lighting (I now use an LED headlight) and the boilers in the kitchen and bathroom: hot water in the kitchen is now done via the hot water boiler and I now shower via an outdoor shower, which is actually a garden hose in the flat sun 😊

It was the first time in my life that I was happy with the energy bill, because the energy consumption had been reduced by more than half (see picture with consumption over last 12 months) the biggest energy consumers right now are probably the laptop and the wifi, so we'll see what can be found there but in any case this is a very hopeful result 😊 witnessed some breath-taking natural phenomena last monday and this morning on monday I was with the fifettes walking, when suddenly I found myself between the setting full moon and the rising sun, which were perfectly aligned opposite each other there was something magical about the sun rays and the red glow on one side and the radiant blue sky with the large setting white disk at exactly 180° today there was the rising sun, which created a beautiful rainbow, which "touched" the ground below in the garden below the donjon and gave one of the trees a beautiful cloth of different, bright colours that is already the third extraordinary natural phenomenon I witness in ten days

I know that the evening and morning sky during the september months often provide beautiful spectacles, but the 3 spectacles of last week are without discussion the top 3... and since I don't believe in coincidence 😊 on an energetic level, some powerful things have happened in the last few days monday I got a phone call from a sobbing Lucie it wasn't the first time I saw her cry, but now it was different: things she had bottled up for years had come loose and that caused a flood of liberating emotions she asked me to drop by and on intuition I decided to drive to her what she told me confirmed what i had felt during her last ayahuasca ceremony she had felt very unsafe and the shaman jean-charles had told her that she had better get out of the corner and place herself with his wife in order to comfort her she never had understood the trigger of that feeling of unsafety, and now, many years later, she had seen the light and she wanted to share this with me it was a prenatal block, a moment when she felt highly uncomfortable and threatened in the womb, which had caused her to be dismissive of the womb in general and her own womb in particular now she had come to terms and that caused a flood of deep, beautiful and sincere emotions she thanked me for coming, but actually I had to thank her for sharing such a beautiful experience

I also received a message from guillaume and éléonore, that they did not want to become the guard of the keep for a few months because they were looking for something more securing to continue their spiritual path

I answered them that as far as I am concerned, they are eligible to become residents of the donjon that in itself is a little more tangible than a gardien position and now it is up to them to react of course this will also mean a big adjustment for me, but I am ready and my intuition tells me that this will work with them during the drive back to the donjon three things came to mind first the passage luke 11,11-13

*If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent?
Or if he shall ask an egg, will he offer him a scorpion?
If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children how much more shall your heavenly father give the holy spirit to them that ask him?*

then a passage from Deuteronomy 6:5-9 *and thou shalt love the lord thy god with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.

and these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart: and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up and thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes. and thou shalt write them upon the posts of thy house, and on thy gates.*

then the prayer of st francis *lord, make me an instrument of your peace, where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; where there is sadness, joy.

o divine master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled, as to console; to be understood, as to understand;
to be loved, as to love. for it is in giving that we receive. it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal Life* the combination of these three things, is the essence of the les tours des miracles project if we keep asking with all our heart, all our soul, all our mind and all our strength to the (((source))) to be fully filled with her again, as we have been at our conception, then we will become a permanent transmitter/channel of her that's what I wrote on a piece of paper, which I put in the amethyst sat 17

this morning i received a message from jef that they had missed their plane and that they had to buy expensive last minute tickets and that he could not borrow the agreed amount that meant that this item was back on the agenda after that the first visitors of the open monument day arrived there was the ex-prisoner, who had restored all the pottery shards that had been found around the keep to their original form and who came to take a look at the building where they had been found there was also clément, who had helped me a few years ago to clear the underground passages a bit, who came to take a look with his dad meanwhile I had received a phone call from guillaume & éléonore, that they were definitely canceling the gardenage in péchon the reason they gave is that they wanted specific dates when they would be alone in the building and that I couldn't give them at the moment since I don't believe in coincidence and clément likes both the building and the fiffettes, I immediately asked him if he didn't want to guard the donjon in my absence and he was going to consider this in the evening a part of the sheep mystery was solved I heard a kind of barking and at first I thought it was a rutting deer when I went to look with the flashlight, I saw that two jack russels were attacking a sheep I chased them away and then went to inform the owner the two of them had already killed over 20 chickens and 5 sheep at other neighbours, so that could explain some of the mysterious deaths meanwhile I have also discovered that the moroccan regions, that appeal to me in particular are the remote, i.e. the coastal areas, the high mountains and the desert, are linked to 3 berber groups (see map) : the rifains, the tamazights and chleuchs with the tachelhit language the search would therefore focus on authentic fishing, mountain and nomadic communities in this region, combined with an al fresco lifestyle, vistas and ruins of historic building to keep it simple : soulful, authentic communities where my soul would instantly feel at home equinox, the day where everywhere on earth the day has 12h of length, is always a special day of the year the past few days have been mainly filled with reading the books l'âme du monde (the soul of the world) and la vie après la vie (life after life), which lucie had recommended to me

I felt like reformulating the project in a little more accessible way before leaving for morocco in la vie après la vie just the same theme came up: people found it difficult to put into words these near-death experiences, for the very simple reason that our words referred to our three-dimensional world and were therefore ill-suited for describing higher dimensions there was one passage in particular that really touched me and that was the passage about plato, the greek philosopher of the 5th century bc contrary to what was claimed at the time, i.e. that death was a kind of sleep where everything was forgotten, plato saw this completely the other way around according to plato, the soul enters the physical body from a higher, more divine plane of being he considered that the sleeping and forgetting started at birth, since the soul, when housed in the body, goes from a state of great consciousness to a state of lesser consciousness, forgetting the truths it knew in its previous out-of-body condition he considered death as an awakening and remembering that corresponds very closely to the curve, which is on the project website and which indicates to what extent we are connected with the (((source))) the word sleep is well chosen, because it doesn't really have a negative connotation another passage that struck me about the near-death experiences is that the (((source))) insisted that learning to love unconditionally in this physical world was our most important, and in fact only task, and that she really didn't care how many attempts or time it took, as long as we kept trying in the afternoon I got heidi on the phone no buyer had yet been found for their house and that threatened to push back the date for the sales agreement because if they still owned their house when buying zuivelfabriek, they would pay higher registration fees i thought back to the moment when i was waiting 1 month in the zuivelfabriek for the liberating call from the people of stöd and i decided not to make the same mistake twice: once i had everything in order i would leave for morocco, whether there would be a sales agreement or not if the compromise was ready to sign, then I would make sure that I would find a computer, printer, scanner and internet somewhere in 😊 morocco this night I woke up with one of the words that jesus spoke on the cross and which sums everything up for me τέτέλεσται, which is usually translated with fully accomplished that's a very succinct way of summarizing the project, although I have to laugh at myself now because I had been written the same words only a few days ago a piece of the universal soul is incarnated because it wants to learn, to evolve that happens because through this incarnation ensures that an ego arises, which, by means of the survival instinct, is responsible for the suffering every bit of suffering is therefore a blessing, because it can make our soul evolve (although our ego sees it differently of course) either the soul is fully accomplished (τέτέλεσται) during our earthly life, as happened with buddha, jesus, mohammed and many after them in that case the soul can rise to the next level of learning, although I have absolutely no idea what this could mean 😊 in the other cases the soul experiences a replay of these learning moments after physical death before being reset, re-joining the universal soul and the cycle restarts over and over again as a kind of re-examination

I think the easiest way to have our soul fully accomplished is to just ask the universal soul and then just follow our intuition, that is inspired by the universal soul, instead of our (survival) instinct, that is controlled by our subconscious mind today radiesthesiologists have visited to measure the high-energy points of the donjon it was a very interesting first acquaintance with the group and I am convinced that this story will be developed further in the woods next to the house there is a point de menhir and in the rock wall between this point and the donjon there are said to have been troglodyte dwellings the donjon itself is said to have been built at the crossroads of a réseau sacré also the place, where lucie had set up her tent in june, was an energetically charged place there was also one person who said that my soul had already lived on this place during another life as is usually the case with such visitors, with every answer two new questions arise 😊 tue 27

today I put a new version online, which is all about how to fully accomplish our souls, τέτέλεσται according to the measurements I have made, the soul of humanity is currently on average to an extent of 3 accomplished when we die in the ideal world when the soul remains connected to the (((universal soul))), it is on average fully completed after 30 to 35 years the purpose of les tours des miracles is to let a soul grow up in a community, whose super soul is largely connected to the (((universal soul))), this limits the delay of the soul's learning process to a decade my soul is at this moment to an extent of 4 accomplished

I have also tried to put this into clear, understandable graphs, but with the feedback I have already received, there is still room for improvement 😊 since sunday i have the visit of dolma, an algerian berber woman, and her two yorks we have already exchanged something about the berber culture and today i also tasted the typical berber bread for the first time dolma also has 7 years of experience as a seamstress and she promised to help me fabricate the blackout/insulation for the car windows right now the first days of autumn have arrived and that immediately changes the way of life during the morning walk I wear a turtleneck sweater, a hoody, long pants, stockings and wellies ... what a big change, compared to last week then the sun comes through and I need a wardrobe adjustment to a t-shirt and shorts in the evening it comes chilly again and so we go back to the turtleneck sweater, a hoody and long pants how nice it will be if I could live continuously al fresco since saturday the guards marie, damien and clément arrive, good weather is forecast from next monday on and the post is closed on monday, i decided to leave next tuesday ideally I drive to finestras to stay there for one night before driving to el gator in southern spain on wednesday if ingeborg can provide a socket, wifi and an address to take a pcr test, then I can spend the night there and with a negative pcr test book a ferry from algeciras, which is a 2 hour drive, to ceuta and then via this enclave on african soil cross the spanish / moroccan border before the 72-hour deadline has expired in terms of preparation, this week should be enough for most of the things tomorrow the car will go to the garage to put on some "new" tires, check the blocked brake disc and a quick check-up of the other vital parts after that I want to put the blog online in 3 languages, I want to transfer as much as possible useful info to the gardiens, make the VAT return and post it, handle all documents/mails and make the suitcases at ease ideally the sheep would also be out of the pasture, the firewood would have been split and stacked in the barn and the sales agreement for the zuivelfabriek van hollebeke would also be signed, but those are no deal breakers all those things have already been launched with a timing that I considered realistic, but at the moment the response is not forthcoming however, it didn't like the good idea to adjust my departure date to those things that are beyond my control, because then I would end up in the same situation as in february no, the message was sent to the universe that I would leave within a week and then it is a matter of trusting that appropriate solutions will present themselves in the meantime although I must confess that the confidence is not yet fully there since my adrenaline dose rose significantly after I took that decision and i only fell asleep after midnight 😊

fri 30

today was an important day lucie has taken care of the kitchen, dolma has taken care of the darkening / insulation of the car windows and I myself have completed all paperwork, emails and accounting last night I had a hard time falling asleep because finances kept me awake before the morocco trip would be over, I would run out of money, and I wondered who else I could turn to there is of course enough money in this world, although I wanted to borrow, from the person who was close to the project this afternoon while walking the dogs, the name of bernard came to mind few hours later bernard called me and when i spoke to him about the finances he said i could count on his support once again a weight was lifted and I received confirmation that I needed to let go of control a little more and trust that the universe would provide everything that was needed again it had been a very meaningful and fruitful day
